

THE FAN MAKER

Issue 22

27 April 2020

Fan Makers may it Flourish Root and Branch

It has become clear that the severe restrictions on movement and gatherings that are currently in place will probably mean that we are going to be unable to meet together for dinner events and fellowship for some while.

At this difficult time, Fan Makers are taking three initiatives which go to the heart of what we strive to be as a family:

Firstly, we have put in place measures aimed at looking after one another, particularly those currently living in isolation - approximately a third of our membership. Led by our Almoner, Past Master John Allen, ten members of the Court are contacting those in isolation, be they over 70, infirm, single or widowed, to check on their wellbeing. If you would also like to receive a call, please contact the Clerk who will put you in touch with a member of the team.

Secondly, the need for charitable support is now greater than ever, either because many existing charities are receiving reduced income or no income at all, or because new needs are emerging caused by the consequences of the medical emergency. Due to the generosity of the Livery's donations to the Poor Fund, we have been able to make grants of £81,250 to charities in London that are tackling the knock-on effects of the pandemic.. Led by the Chairman of our Charity Committee, Past Master Paul Hoddinott, the team of seven Grant secretaries have contacted all the charities we currently support and reviewed their new and emerging needs. This has been balanced against the knowledge that our investment income will be markedly reduced this year. For the time being we have opted to keep close to our regular charities and reassess the need for our grants in August.

Finally we have given a lot of consideration as to how to develop an interesting calendar of free weekly events to enable you to interact with each other. We have many talented and interesting members and a team, comprised of Mr Assistants Jeffery, Turner, and Block have corralled some of our number to participate in a chain mail interview (interviewed one week, interviewing who they choose the next). The first to be interviewed will be Past Master John Hughes who served with the Metropolitan Police as a protection officer for many years. The format will be that the interview will last for about 30 minutes, after which there will be an opportunity for questions and some social interaction, before a senior member of the Court calls on all present to toast the Fan Makers. These interviews will be held fortnightly on Wednesdays. On the alternate Wednesday, a series of talks on fans will be given, co-ordinated by the Keeper of our Fan Collection, Miss Assistant Honoris Causa Anne-Marie Benson. More details of these free events will be available soon.

Booking for all these events is through the Members' section of the website. The Zoom video-conferencing platform that we are using is very easy to navigate, and Mr Liveryman Richard Lovell will be on hand to help anyone needing assistance.

We may not be able to meet face to face, but I hope we can continue to enjoy the benefits of Livery life.

Master

Getting to know you:

The Wardens

The Free Warden

Jonathan Bewes

Jonathan's great grandfather, Oscar Berry, had been Master of the Company in 1911, the year of the coronation of King George V and Queen Mary (to whom he presented a Coronation Fan, which is now in the Queen's collection). After Oscar, the family connection died out until 1990 when Jonathan joined the company.

Having worked in London for over 30 years, first as a Chartered Accountant and then as an Investment Banker, Jonathan now has a portfolio of roles including a part-time role in a bank, as a non-executive director and chairman of the audit committee for two U.K. public companies, a trustee and Council member of a University and a School Governor.

Married to Caroline, with 4 children, home is in London, but they spend as much time as they can down on the south coast of Devon, where they are fortunate to have a bolthole, and he can indulge his hobbies of playing golf and tennis, and playing around in his boat!

"My Inheritance track:

Supertramp – The Logical Song. I went to the same school as Roger Hodgson the lead-singer. As Supertramp were in their heyday, it was a very regular sound around the school at the time I was there, and the music evokes many memories." (Editorial note: this newsletter was put together to a background of Supertramp)

The Foreign Warden

Peter Dove

Peter joined the company in 1994 from our affiliated Army unit 217 Fd Sqn at the same time as Mike Lakin. Both 'press ganged' by the then Master Godfrey Bilton during an army cocktail party and the then Clerk, Ian Green, ensured their sign up with a large glass of whisky after their first dinner in the flat Fan Makers then had at Skinners Hall. Peter says he has never looked back since, even after leaving the TA in 2000, and he is amazed how quickly the post of Foreign Warden has come up. He has worked for 40 years in London and is a chartered surveyor and fund manager. Peter lives with his wife Annie on a small farm in Dorset where the Good Life plays a big role but with sheep and cattle as much as hens and bees. Shooting is a main indulgence along with fishing salmon and military history, although his secret is philately where he has an obscure obsession in POW letters.

My inheritance track:

Pink Floyd – Echoes (Pompei version). It reminds me of long hot summers in my salad days chilling out without a care in the world." (Further editorial note – the Wardens both being aging rockers have agreed to lay on a Concert after the lockdown)

The History of the Fan Makers Company in 20 Objects

Like many Livery Companies, the Fan Makers has a collection of historic artefacts, some of which may be familiar to you, others not. In this edition we feature the Beadle's Staff (the oldest treasure the company owns) and one of our more beautiful fans, the Lady Arthur Fan

Object Number 1: The Lady Arthur Fan

French .Circa 1860

Double paper leaf with White mother-of-pearl sticks (2+14)

10½ inches, 27 cm.

The narrow leaf of this fan is painted with a suitor bowing to a young lady whose servant stands beside her holding a parasol. Meanwhile other male and female companions, all dressed in 17th century costume and some carrying fans, enjoy their leisure in a garden. The reserves are decorated with musical instruments and sheet music. The reverse of the fan depicts flowers and blossom.

The mother-of-pearl sticks and guards with burgo insertions in the gorge are ornately carved, pierced and gilded with figures in a garden, scrolling branches, flowers and leaves. The gilt metal loop has a sea-blue silk and metal thread tassel.

Provenance: Presented to the Company in October 1973 by HRH Princess Alice, Countess of Athlone. The fan had been given to Princess Alice by Lady Arthur.

Object No.2 The Company Mace

English Possibly 1696 with later additions

Wood and Sterling silver

Mace: 70 inches, 179 cm.

Fan Finial: 7.25 x 4.75 inches, 18.1 x 12.2 cm. Weight 2.5 oz., 78 g. AR No. 396

The Mace is the oldest piece in the Company's silver collection and is carried by the Beadle in front of the Master at all official occasions.

A Thought for the Day from Our Chaplain

The novelty of lockdown is wearing off for all of us.

Whenever I am tempted to bemoan our fate I think of an Indian priest reported in the Church Times last week, saying,

"For us, social distancing and washing hands is a luxury we do not have".

I for one, will never take for granted our happy meetings.

Our family of Fan Makers feature in my prayers morning and evening.

God bless you all and I miss you very much.
